

U.S. Agriculture Benefits from Trade Agreements

April 2015

In countries where the United States has free trade agreements, exports of U.S. farm and food products have grown significantly. Between 2004 and 2014, U.S. agricultural exports to those countries increased more than 145 percent – from $24 billion to $59 billion.

Continued expansion of international markets is crucial to the continued success of the U.S. agricultural sector. New trade agreements create opportunities to increase international sales by stripping away trade barriers, eliminating tariffs, opening markets, and promoting investment and economic growth.

Right now, the United States is negotiating two critical trade agreements – the Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) and the Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (T-TIP). Trade Promotion Authority will help ensure that America's farmers, ranchers, and food processors receive the greatest benefit from these negotiations.

COLOMBIA, PANAMA, AND SOUTH KOREA

The United States' most recent trade pacts – with Colombia, Panama, and South Korea – took effect in 2012. Since then, U.S. exports of many food and agricultural products have seen significant gains.

- Soybeans, soymeal, and soy oil exports to Korea, Colombia, and Panama increased from less than $595 million in 2011 to over $960 million in 2014.
- Tree nut exports to Korea, Colombia, and Panama increased from less than $210 million in 2011 to almost $390 million in 2014.
- Fresh and processed fruit exports to Korea, Colombia, and Panama increased from less than $370 million in 2011 to more than $500 million in 2014.
- Fresh and processed vegetable exports to Korea, Colombia, and Panama grew from less than $135 million in 2011 to $195 million in 2014.
- Dairy exports to Korea, Colombia, and Panama grew from $265 million in 2011 to over $525 million in 2014.
- Pork and pork product exports to Colombia and Panama increased from less than $45 million in 2011 to more than $160 million in 2014.
- Poultry meat and product exports to Colombia and Panama grew from less than $45 million in 2011 to more than nearly $80 million in 2014.
- Beef and beef product exports to Colombia and Panama tripled to more than $28 million in 2014.

CENTRAL AMERICAN AND THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Under the Dominican Republic-Central America Free Trade Agreement (CAFTA-DR), the United States' free trade relationships with the Dominican Republic and five Central American countries – Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua – began between 2006 and 2009. Our exports to those countries have more than doubled from $1.9 billion in 2005 to $4.4 billion in 2014.
